Black and Latinx Marylanders are suffering disproportionately from COVID-19. A new analysis of 10 major U.S. cities found that non-white counties had higher cumulative incidences and deaths compared to predominantly white counties regardless of income. According to Maryland Department of Health data, the rate of coronavirus infections and related deaths is higher among Black and Latinx.

The Maryland Advisory Committee is studying the issue and hosting a series of panel presentations. The next is on Tuesday, August 4, at 12:00. It is open to the public.

John B. King Jr., President and CEO of The Education Trust and former Secretary of Education will participate along with Dr. Stephen B. Thomas, Director of the Maryland Center for Health Equity and Karen B. Evans, Executive Director of the Maryland Board of Nursing.
