Antisemitism on America's College and University Campuses: Current Conditions and the Federal Response

February 19, 2026 | Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights will hold a briefing on Thursday, February 19, 2026 as part of its investigation titled, "Antisemitism on America's College and University Campuses: Current Conditions and the Federal Response." The briefing will be followed by a Public Comment Session scheduled for Friday, February 20, 2026. The bipartisan investigation, led by Commissioners Peter Kirsanow \(R\) and Mondaire Jones \(D\), will examine how institutions of higher education and the federal government responded to allegations of antisemitism on U.S. college and university campuses in violation of federal civil rights protections. This study will primarily examine four subjects:

1. How the Office for Civil Rights in the U.S. Department of Education has responded to allegations of antisemitic incidents on college and university campuses since October 7, 2023.
2. How the U.S. Department of Justice has responded to allegations of antisemitic incidents on college and university campuses since October 7, 2023.
3. How the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has responded to allegations of antisemitic incidents on college and university campuses since October 7, 2023.
4. How a sample of colleges and universities has responded to allegations of antisemitic incidents on their campuses since October 7, 2023.

"Every student deserves the freedom to learn, speak, and participate fully in campus life without fear of harassment or intimidation. Upholding free speech does not mean tolerating discrimination, and protecting civil rights does not require silencing lawful expression. The Commission is committed to examining how institutions can meet both obligations to ensure that no one's rights are compromised in the process." – Chair Rochelle M. Garza

"In the Commission's longstanding tradition of examining the implementation of our nation's civil rights laws, I am proud to be co-leading a bipartisan, focused inquiry into the response by the federal government and institutions of higher education to antisemitism on America's college and university campuses. Following the events of October 7, 2023, the scourge of antisemitism in America reached a fever pitch. This was obvious in higher education. It is the Commission's solemn obligation to study how the federal government, and institutions of higher education, have responded to protect Jewish students. I urge the Trump administration, colleges and universities, and the public to engage with our important work." – Commissioner Mondaire Jones

"Since October 7, 2023, there's been a serious spike in reported instances of antisemitism. The Commission will be examining, among other things, the causes of antisemitism, its prevalence and effects, and strategies to combat and extinguish it."
– Commissioner Peter Kirsanow

At this public briefing, the Commission will hear from subject matter experts such as current and former federal officials, impacted students and university officials, advocacy organizations, and legal and policy experts.

The Commission will also accept written materials from the public for consideration as it prepares its report. Written materials may be submitted to asbriefing@usccr.gov no later than March 20, 2026.
