U.S. Commission on Civil Rights

Policy Statement on Equal Employment Opportunity

The U.S. Commission on Civil Rights' (USCCR or Commission) mission is to inform the development of national civil rights policy and improve enforcement of federal civil rights laws. See 42 U.S.C. § 1975a. The Commission embraces equal employment opportunity (EEO) and inclusiveness. We welcome employees from diverse backgrounds to apply their skills and talents towards advancing our mission to further civil rights. Accordingly, it is the policy of the Commission to provide equal opportunity in all employment decisions for employees and applicants for employment. The Commission's EEO Policies, Plans, and Procedures can be found at <https://www.usccr.gov/eo>.

This EEO Policy Statement is an annual reminder that all USCCR employees and applicants for employment are covered and protected by federal laws and Presidential Executive Orders designed to safeguard federal employees and job applicants from discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, genetic information (including family medical history), pregnancy (including childbirth or related medical conditions), military service, or other non-merit based factors. These protections extend to all management practices and decisions, including recruitment, hiring, merit promotions, transfers, reassignments, training, career development programs, benefits, and separations. USCCR supports the use of alternative dispute resolution to resolve EEO complaints and workplace disputes.

Additionally, consistent with the above legal obligations, USCCR also provides reasonable accommodations to employees and applicants with disabilities; known limitations related to pregnancy, childbirth, or related medical conditions as required by the Pregnant Workers Fairness Act (PWFA); and for sincerely held religious beliefs, observances, and practices unless the accommodation will cause USCCR an "undue hardship."

USCCR employees and applicants are also protected against retaliation. Consistent with federal laws, acts of retaliation against an employee who engages in protected activity, such as reporting or opposing discrimination or harassment, participating in the EEO process, requesting reasonable accommodation, whistleblowing, or the exercise of any appeal or grievance right provided by law, will not be tolerated by USCCR.

The Commission will take swift and appropriate corrective and/or disciplinary action when Commission employees, agents of Commission employees, or non-employees are found to have engaged in discrimination, retaliation, or harassment (including sexual harassment).

All USCCR employees and applicants for employment are afforded legal protection against EEO violations and have the right to raise allegations of discrimination and harassment without fear of reprisal. USCCR employees or applicants for employment who believe that have been subjected to discrimination, harassment, or to retaliation for participating in EEO activity, or for opposing discrimination, should contact the EEO Director, Latrice Foshee at 202-376-7655 or by email at lfoshee@usCCR.gov, within 45 days of when the alleged harm occurred.

Since its founding in 1957, the Commission has stood for equal protection under the law. Employees and applicants for employment have my commitment that equal justice and opportunity will continue across the Commission.
